in this city, that they do not propose to be cut adrift in the world, and that he will have some very serious charges to meet in the Third district court.

Philpot was formerly a partner in the Silver Doliar saloon in this city, but something over six months ago he went to Tooele county and received the appointment of postmaster at Ibapah. On November 22 he came to Salt Lake and employed an attorney to begin divorce proceedings against his wife, who, he alleged, had deserted him and was at that time in Brandon, Miss. He made the usual allegations with reference to the desertion and upon that ground prayed for a decree. For reasons that now seem to be apparent, Philpot was very desirous that no publicity be given the matter and his attorney had the case withheld from the reporters. The only thing in Philpot's favor is that he had personal service made upon his wife in Mississippi, and if he fails to obtain his decree this oversight on her part will be responsible for the non-severance of the ties which he seeks to have dissolved.

On last Friday Mrs. 'hilpot arrived here from Mississippi ad engaged a room at the residence of the Coroner Harris. She is a very handsome oung woman of southern birth, and her little boy is beautiful as a picture. As soon as possible after her arrival she employed an attorney and filed her answer to Philpot's complaint.

She denies that she deserted the plaintiff, as he alleges, but avers that she left

Nate Sampliner will file a $5,000 damage suit against the Rio Grande Western railway company in the Third district court to day. About the 15th of November, it is alleged, Sampliner, who was travelling for Fred J. Keisel & Company of Ogden, arrived in Salt Lake on delendants' midnight train. The depot platform was iddark and as plaintiff slighted his foot struck a defective spot and his ankle was so badly sprained that he has not yet recovered. He alleges neglegence upon the part of defendants in not having the platform lighted and upon that ground and the extent of his injury demands damages as stated. J. W. THE SALT LAKE BAR.

We Have Over Two Hundred Attorneys

If there is an apprehension on the part of any one that Salt Lake hasn't sufficient attorneys to transact her law business, they should let their apprehensions go by they should let their apprehensions go by default. Sait Lake may or may not be "short" on some of the professions, but iaw is not one of them. She is "long" on lawyers, very long. There are 200 gentlemen and one lady who have the right to address his honor before the bar of justice and who are anxions at all times to give the court any wholesome advice upon knotiv law points that he is willing to listen to.

The new directory puts the number of attorneys at 184, but several got in too late to be enumerated. Placing the population of the city at 60,000 and the number of havyers at 200, this gives us one lawyer to every 300 people. As litigation is an expensive luxury which comparatively few people can afford, one lawyer can look after that number very readily without any danger of being prostrated by brain-fag or similar allments. The list alphabetically as taken from the directory is as follows: M seems to be the most favored limital letter and leads the list with 21. Then comes B with 15 each; M, 4 each; Y, 3; Z, 2; 1, 1; 0, 1.

In the entire list there is but one hady, and that is Miss E. R. Lee, who was almost admitted to praculce in the supreme court a short time ago.

Taken as a whole, Sait Lake's bar is one of the strongest in the entire west, and since can farmish suitable timber for almost any office that might be mentioned on the customary five days notice.

New Mexico's Jenlousy.

To the Editor of The Herald: It is unusual for the chief executive of filed in the Third district court is one that contains the pitiful tale of a darkeyed daughter of the sunny south, a tale among the legal documents recently to the district the respectable citithe merits or demerits of so large a population as constitute the respectable cititem effectually, dispels colds, head-of the American element even in high places.

In New Mexico murder is infrequently punished; the greater number under the rallings of Judge Lynch. Unlawful cohabitation is puninshed only where poverty and iguarance make no defense. Years ago when the law was rigidly enforced, unlawful cohabitation was summarily dissolved. Some went through the legal forms of marriage; others went elsewhere to wed those of Anglo Saxon origin. The dire extremety to comply with the law wrought changes that placed social surroundings on a firmer basis. Utah's claims for statehood are too imperative to be interfered with by the jealousies or idiosyncracies of New Mexico office holders who will so soon be retired to political obscurity.

A Mother's Mistake.

The December Ratio of Marriage Licenses to Divorce Suits.

It matters not how many articles may be written from the point of view that marriage is a failure, connubial bliss is as popular as ever and was a four to one favorite during December as shown by the records. County Clerk Allen granted eighty-eight licenses during the month and Clerk McMillen of the Third district court entered up twenty-two applications for "general relief" upon the part of a like number of discontented husbands and wives.

Ever hear of the Encyclopsedia Britannica? Probably. If not, any literary man or librarian will tell you that it is universally accepted as the standard Encyclopædia in the English language. It ought to be. It was originally published in 1771, and since that time has passed through nine editions, the latest of which was compiled fifteen years ago. In its lifetime of a hundred years and more it has gathered to itself the choicest work of the best writers of each successive generation, sparing no expense to secure from every expert in every department of human knowledge the best he was capable of giving. On the preparation of its various editions it has spent more than three millions sterling, and the cost of the latest or pinth edition alone was not less than ONE MILLION DOLLARS. But the Encyclopædia Britannica has three defects which detract from its sectulness in an American family. In the first place, part of its latest edition to now fifteen years-or half a generation-behind the age. In the next place, It makes no biographical mention of any persons who were living when it was compiled, no matter how famous they may have been; General Grant, even, is left out. And, lastly, the Encyclopædia Britannica is an English work, compiled for the use of Englishmen in England, and, as is only natural under such circumstances, it treats all subjects of peculiarly English interest exhaustively, and those of purely American interest with far less than the subject warrants. Three pages to an English County and a column or less to an American State is about the proportion.

The Americanized Encyclopædia Britannica

Contains every subject the Encyclopedia Britannics does, with the above defects carefully amended. The entire work has been revised to date, and a series of ninety-six new maps inserted; over 4,000 new biographies have been added, including every person of prominence in the entire world, and the Encyclopædia has been Americanized by reducing the space allotted to peculiarly English subjects and by enlarging that devoted to topics of purely American interest. The result is, we honestly consider, the Best Encyclopædia in the World today, and that is saying a great deal.
